

PORFIRIO DIAZ DIES AN EXILE AT PARIS HOME

Ex-President of Mexico and Its Most Famous Man
Victim of Old Age

THE INFLUENCE BEGAN EARLY

Ruled from 1877 to 1911 as President of Mexico Establishing Progressive Government

PARIS, July 3.—Porfirio Diaz, former President of Mexico, died at 7 o'clock Friday night. General Diaz' wife, Senora Carmen Romero Rubio Diaz, and their son, Porfirio Diaz, Jr., and the latter's wife were at the bedside when the end came. He was 85 years of age.

General Diaz had been in failing health since reaching Europe in 1911, after his resignation from the presidency of Mexico, following the successful Madero revolution. Last fall he was ill at Biarritz, France, but was reported to have recovered.

General Diaz began to fail rapidly about three weeks ago and while his death was not unexpected, owing to his advanced age and recent failing health, the crisis came suddenly Friday afternoon. Porfirio Diaz, Jr., and his wife were hastily summoned and arrived at the bedside only a few moments before the end, which came at 7 o'clock.

Cannot Send Body Home

Two tragic circumstances marked the death of the exiled ruler. Owing to the troubled state in Mexico, it has been judged impossible to send the body home with all that ceremony which would have befitted one of the greatest figures in Mexican history, and further, Colonel Porfirio Diaz, Jr., has tried in vain to inform his sisters, Senora Ignacio de la Torre and Senora Rincon Gallardo, who are now in Mexico, of the death of their father.

General Diaz lived here in the greatest simplicity, occupying a modest apartment, in striking contrast to the great houses and retinue of servants maintained by some of his friends who fled Mexico with him.

Though arrangements have not been made public, it was understood here today that the body of Porfirio Diaz, former dictator of Mexico, will be buried in Pere Lachaise cemetery. Internment probably will be postponed several days pending the arrival of friends and relatives of the former president.

Born of Spanish Stock

General Porfirio Diaz was born in 1830. His family was of old Spanish stock, with an infusion of Indian blood. Left fatherless at the age of 3, he was educated at the expense of the bishop of Oaxaca with the intention of becoming a priest, but he eventually turned to law, and then, at the outbreak of the war with the United States, turned to a military career.

He served throughout the struggle in a militia company which he helped organize, and after peace was declared he made a special study of military science.

Joins Herrera's Revolt

His execution was ordered, but he evaded and joined Herrera's revolt. He speedily made a reputation as a soldier, and as a brigadier general he was the chief thorn in the side of the French forces when, taking advantage of the civil war in the United States, they attempted to place Archduke Maximilian of Austria on the throne of a Mexican empire.

Diaz harassed the enemy constantly and in June, 1867, captured Mexico City with his forces. On the re-establishment as the republic he was unsuccessful as a candidate for president, but in 1877 he was elected to fill the unexpired term of the fugitive president, Lerdo. His last and eighth election was in July, 1910.

To Diaz was given credit for the advance of Mexico to the status of a stable, progressive and prosperous government, although the autocratic methods he employed were widely criticized.

Forced to Resign

Then came the revolution led by General Francisco I. Madero, Jr., which brought about the aged president's reported pledge early in 1911 to resign his office in a bargain for peace, but on May 24, the day on which the resignation was expected, it was not forthcoming.

Riots occurred that day in Mexico City, during which many persons were killed. The national palace was stormed by mobs shouting "Vive Madero" and demanding to know why Diaz did not resign.

The next day Diaz read his letter of resignation to the chamber of deputies. A large majority voted aye; the other legislators rose and bowed their affirmation as their names were called.

The minister of foreign affairs, Francisco Leon de la Barra, was immediately chosen provisional president, and Diaz, of whom for thirty years all Mexico had stood in awe, left the capital secretly the next day to embark at Vera Cruz for Europe.

Since then he had lived virtually an exile in Paris and other European cities, a silent observer of still more trouble, some times in the land he had long ruled.

SEA FIGHT FOLLOWS GERMAN ATTEMPT TO LAND NEAR WINDAU

THIRTY SHIPS IN NAVAL BATTLE OFF DENMARK THURSDAY

German Mine Layer "Albatross" Reported Beached After a Night Fight

TEN CRUISERS ARE ENGAGED

German Squadron Attacked by Russians When Covering Debarkation on Russian Coast

COPENHAGEN, July 3.—Ten cruisers and twenty torpedo boats were engaged in the Thursday night naval battle off the island of Gothland, between German and Russian ships, in which the German mine layer Albatross was beached and destroyed. Including among the 31 dead buried in Gothland was Captain Lowenher of the Albatross.

Dispatches from Petrograd today reported that a German cruiser was and advices from Swedish points report the destruction of a German torpedo boat. It is believed here, however, that these reports are erroneous and that the German mine layer sent ashore on Gothland was the "cruiser" mentioned in Petrograd dispatches.

Reports from Gothland today indicate that a German squadron, at attempting to cover the debarkation of German troops on the Russian coast south of Windau was attacked by a flotilla of Russian destroyers. The Russians closed in upon the German boats and inflicted heavy damage before several fast German cruisers dashed into action and forced the Russians to retire northward.

The mine layer Albatross, unable to escape because of her slow speed, received the concentrated fire of several Russian warships.

A Swedish destroyer flotilla was on the scene of the engagement. Reports from Stockholm today said the Russian destroyers continued the pursuit into Swedish waters and that a protest would undoubtedly be lodged with the Russian government.

"The Russians," said a Gothland dispatch today, "are reported to be bringing up other naval units. It is expected that the engagement will be resumed."

BANDITS SNATCH $3,000

SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—Three bandits snatched money sacks containing $3,000 and escaped in an auto toward San Rafael following a hold-up and exchanged shots with three bank messengers in a crowded street at Angeles, Cal., today. Posses are trying to catch up with the highwaymen.

RECEIVER NAMED

DES MOINES, Iowa, July 3.—Federal Judge Wade named E. C. Schmidt, receiver for the Des Moines City Street Railway company today because the company has defaulted of payment of interest on over $2,000,000. Schmidt is the present manager of the company.

MANY FOUNTAINS ARE RECOMMENDED TO CITY COUNCIL

Fourteen New Thirst-quenchers Will Be Placed About City at Widely Scattered Points

WILL RE-APPORTION SOUTH WARDS

Big Chunk to Be Taken from Eighth and Given to Twenty-first if Committee Plan Carries

Recommendation for fourteen new drinking fountains at points scattered all over the north and south sides were adopted by the special water committee at a meeting last night. In addition to the new fountains recommended, it was decided advisable to put into use a number of fountains now existing but unused because not connected with the new water system.

The committee's decision means an increase of about twenty in the number of drinking fountains.

The new locations decided upon are: Twelfth and Pine; Twelfth and Cass; Twelfth and Jackson; Twelfth and Mormon Coulee road; Fifth and Market; Tenth and Winnebago; Sixteenth and Madison; Seventh and Pine; Eighth and Division; North Third and Grove; George and Gillette; Berlin and St. Andrews; Rose and St. Cloud; Twenty-fifth and Main.

A proposition brought up by the mayor that dedication of the new water plant be set for Labor day, when a big celebration be held, was not looked upon with favor by the committee. Instead, the members tentatively selected August 18 as the date for the dedication ceremonies. The decision will be passed upon by the council.

Re-apportionment of the Twenty-first ward, and abolition of the office of wood measurer were other recommendations of committees which met at the city hall last night.

Shifts 150 Votes

The "gerrymander" of the city's most southerly ward plans to take from the Eighth ward the territory lying between Tenth street and the limits from Benton street to Green Bay, the present boundary, and add it to the Twenty-first ward. The shift will result in the transfer of about 150 votes from the Eighth ward. It was declared at the meeting that the Eighth ward was too large, with a voting population which could not all be handled on election days.

Abolition of the city wood measurer's office was recommended after it was brought out that the position had netted a loss of $140 to the city last year. The position pays $60 a month for the five winter months, and the salary was not covered last year by the receipts from the five cent tax on each load of wood measured. It is proposed to add the measurer's duties to those of the city weighmaster.

The Worth ordinance providing for a city planning commission was laid on the table by the committee.

FORD DISTRIBUTING AGENCY MAY COME TO GATEWAY CITY

Big Branch of Auto Concern Probably Will Be Established Here Before 1915 Ends

BOYCOTT HOTEL RUMORED SITE

Company's Branch Agencies in Minneapolis and Milwaukee Are Found Insufficient

It is probable that a Ford distributing agency will be established in La Crosse before the close of 1915. This is the important disclosure which followed the circulation of a persistent rumor that such an agency would be established immediately, and that the Boycott hotel had been purchased for the purpose.

No transfer of the hotel has been recorded, and the sale is denied by James McHugh, owner, and by the landlord.

Peter Hofweber & Son, local agents for the Ford, spent yesterday in Milwaukee, which is the state headquarters for the Ford. They deny all knowledge of the plan to establish a general distributing agency here.

From a Milwaukee source it was learned that the Ford company finds its two distributing agencies, at Minneapolis and Milwaukee, insufficient, and that of three new distributing agencies which will supplement the system in the northwest, one will be placed in this city.

CUSHNER PERMIT STILL HELD UP

Campbell Town Board Disagrees and French Island Resort Remains in Operation Without License

FINAL DECISION ON MONDAY

Cushman and Chamberlain Licenses Will Be Settled Definitely at That Time

"Jack" Cushman's place on French Island and William Chamberlain's resort, "Jack Bennett's", were still operating without a license from the town of Campbell today, following disagreement of the town board yesterday upon the advisability of granting Cushman's application for a permit.

A deadlock resulted at the meeting of the town board with District Attorney Otto Schlachbach in Campbell town hall yesterday. Schlachbach again opposed Cushman's application on the strength of the testimony he presented at the Monday meeting of the board which held up the license. Two members of the board favored allowing Cushman to have a license, but the third was steadfastly opposed.

Because of the disagreement no action was taken on the matter. The granting of a license to the old Jack Bennett place on the North Salem road was not brought up.

The two licenses will be definitely acted upon at the final license meeting of the board Monday morning.

Whitman Convinced of Guilt
ALBANY, N. Y., July 3.—In a statement issued this afternoon from the executive mansion, Gov. Whitman stated his absolute conviction of Charles Becker's guilt. The governor expressed his willingness to permit Counsel Manton to publish the names of those alleged by the former police lieutenant to be involved in New York City's so-called police graft.

The governor himself refuses to bargain with a condemned murderer by divulging the names himself.

CENTRAL BOARD BILL MORIBUND FRIENDS ADMIT

Eighteen Bonafide Votes Against It Insure Its Defeat; Bennett Confesses All Bills Are Dead

LEGISLATURE HAS "NERVES"

Members of Both Houses Tired and Short-tempered from Long Grind of Session

MADISON, Wis., July 3.—(Special.)—Hot weather, long and tedious sessions, and an almost unanimous desire to get home, has got the legislature in a frame of mind where almost anything is liable to happen. The members of both houses are tired and short tempered and it takes the constant attention of the floor leaders to keep the respective lids from being blown into Lake Mendota.

Education Bill Dead

The two days' hearing on the central board of education bill has resulted in no action on the measure. The bill has been laid over, with the agricultural consolidation bill until next Wednesday. As far as the education bill is concerned, it is dead. This is admitted on all sides. The opponents of the measure have eighteen bona fide, unchangeable votes. The adherents of the governor do not see much use in passing the Staudemayer substitute, providing for an ex-officio board of five members and a commissioner of education, as it would not be of any benefit to the rural schools, any more than the present bill, and the whole affair will it is said, be given up as a bad job. Everybody seems to be of the same mind regarding the consolidation bills. The idea uppermost in all minds in the senate is to get them out of the way, whatever is done with them.

All Marked For Death

"Every consolidation bill is marked for death," said Senator J. H. Bennett on Friday. "The opponents of these bills want to kill them so that Governor Philipp will have to stay here and run for re-election next election instead of going out for the United States senate."

And with this he left the chamber in a rage.

"If this everlasting talk and hearings and reference of everything that we are trying to do don't stop I will lose my mind," said Senator Whitman, turning to the press desk. "I am on the verge of nervous prostration now."

Assembly Loafs

The assembly will not do any work at all next week. Although the senate refused on Friday to concur in the house resolution to adjourn until Monday, July 12, the lower house got around it by entering into a "gentlemen's agreement" not to do any work until then. The three or four members of the house who will probably stay in the city will meet every morning, answer roll call and adjourn to some cool place.

But the assembly is far ahead of the senate in its work. There is nothing left for the house to do but to consider a number of trifling bills and wait for the appropriation bills. As the finance committee is not through with its work, this will take some time.

BECKER TO NAME MEN "HIGHER UP"

Advice of Counsel Is That New York Officials Will Be Named in Connection with Graft Case

NEW YORK, July 3.—Charles Becker, who is in the deathhouse at Sing Sing, will reveal before he goes to the electric chair, the names of the police department officials, living and dead, with whom he divided the $100,000 graft money that was wrung from the gamblers and illegal resortkeepers in his career as commander of the strong arm squad.

This was the prediction made Friday by the condemned man's lawyer, Martin T. Manton, who gave to the governor on Thursday the names of the six men who worked in the back-ground and took the cash that Becker ground out of ex-convicts.

BOMB EXPLOSION IN CAPITAL PROVED TO BE THE WORK OF A PEACE CRANK

WASHINGTON, July 3.—An explosion, which occurred at 11:40 last night, almost completely wrecked the interior of the senate reception room of the national capital. Everything in the room was smashed; windows were blown out and three telephone booths in the corner of the room were demolished. Fortunately, however, the explosion was not powerful enough to cause any structural damage. The deed was that of a crank.

That the explosion was that of a bomb was conclusively proved today by the Washington Times' receipt of a letter, mailed an hour and a half before the explosion occurred, announcing that the explosion would occur.

After confessing responsibility for the act, the letter's author, who signed himself, not in his own hand but with a typewriter, "R. Pearce," added: "This is the exclamation point in my plea for peace."

The letter continued: "By the way, don't put this on the Germans or on Bryan. I am an old-fashioned American with a conscience, if it is not a sin to have a conscience."

The letter was a lengthy incoherent indictment of the sale of arms and munitions by the United States to warring nations.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The Armenian's status was that of a British government boat, Consul Washington cabled from Liverpool to the state department today. Prior to her last voyage she was requisitioned by the London admiralty, said Washington, and although this requisition was terminated just before she sailed from Newport News, she had not been restored to the regular list of Leyland line sailings.

FINANCIER SHOT BY MADMAN WHO RESENTED LOANS

Anger at Capitalists' Aid to the Allies Given as Reason for the Deed

MAN FORMERLY IN CORNELL

"Morgan Started War and He Could Stop It," Says Prisoner Before the Justice

NEW YORK, July 3.—At the Morgan offices this afternoon the following statement from the doctors in attendance upon Mr. Morgan was made public: "Examination of Mr. Morgan discloses that there are two bullet wounds in the region of his right hip. There are no unfavorable symptoms and he is resting easily." (Signed)

"H. M. LYLE.
"J. W. MARKOE.
"Glen Cove, L. I., 3:30 p. m. July 3."

GLEN COVE, L. I., July 3.—John Pierpont Morgan, the financier, who recently has been handling enormous war contracts for the allies, was shot in the groin today by an identified man with a German accent, who forced his way into the residence at East Island, the great Morgan summer estate here.

According to police, the would-be murderer of J. P. Morgan has stated that his name is F. Holt and that he was formerly a professor of modern languages at Cornell university.

Mrs. Morgan at the risk of her own life attempted to save her husband from the would-be assassin's bullet. Morgan, however, pushed her aside and with his own hand, after being shot, felled the man who had forced his way into the house with two drawn revolvers.

The man came to the Morgan house at Glen Cove at 9 o'clock and handed his card to the butler with the statement:

"I want to see J. P. Morgan. He is an old friend of mine."

The butler took the man into a room off the main library and as he did so, the visitor turned to the butler and drawing a revolver from his coat pocket, said: "You see this gun? I have another one. Now I want to see Mr. Morgan."

Butler Warns Morgan

Appreciating that he was apparently dealing with a mad man the butler said: "Mr. Morgan is in the library. Just a minute, please."

He then turned and walked toward the dining room in the rear.

As he neared the door, he cried: "Upstairs, Mr. Morgan! Upstairs!"

Morgan and his wife, hearing the butler's cry, hurried up a back stairway through a hallway on the second floor and down the front stairway almost directly into the arms of the intruder. Holt greeted him and the encounter with Mr. Morgan followed. After the affray Morgan walked upstairs unassisted, removed his blood-stained clothing and went to bed.

"Morgan started the war and could have stopped it any time he wished. I am willing to die for the service I have rendered humanity," said the prisoner in a statement to Justice of the Peace Luyster, before whom he was charged and held for felonious assault.

The man carried two revolvers which he leveled at the butler of the Morgan home when the door was opened shortly after 9 o'clock. Later it was learned that he carried two sticks of dynamite in his inside vest pocket and had a bottle which the authorities said contained nitro-glycerine.

The would-be assassin was identified as a man who visited Glen Cove on Thursday and inspected the Morgan estate from a hired automobile. It was only the quick action of Morgan in attacking his assailant that saved his life.

Morgan Overpowers Assailant

Morgan, who is a powerfully built man, was more than a match physically for the slender intruder and overpowered him after a struggle during which the man fired two more shots. Several servants rushed to the aid of the financier, and closed in on the would-be assassin.

Morgan had scarcely felt his wound when he sprang upon the man, but after the struggle, he sank in a chair evidently exhausted from the pain from the injury. The constable had been summoned by telephone and soon arrived on the scene.

A hurry call was sent for Dr. W. H. Seabrook, a local physician, who rushed to East Island and dressed Morgan's wound. Another telephone message was sent to New York for Dr. J. W. Markoe, a specialist who came to Glen Cove accompanied by (Continued on Page 6, col. 5)

"Whys" of Moves in European War

(BY J. W. T. MASON)

NEW YORK, July 3.—A clash of antagonistic interests between the Slavs and Italians has occurred in Albania containing possibilities of disturbance to the peace conference after the war.

Albania's geographical position across the Adriatic sea, opposite the southern extremity of Italy, has caused the Roman government to insist that Italian interests in Albania are paramount. Otherwise, the Adriatic cannot become an Italian lake.

Until Italy became a belligerent neither Serbia nor Montenegro showed any interest in the Albanian situation. The natural military offensive of the two Balkan kingdoms is rather in the opposite direction through Bosnia and Herzegovina. The only intelligible reason, in fact, why the Slavs should strike at Albania, is because it is becoming necessary for them to possess a defensive weapon which may compel Italy to moderate her anti-Slavonic policy. A large part of the territory which Italy hopes to annex as her part of the war loot is inhabited almost entirely by Slavs.

The serious military situation in Galicia doubtless compelled Russia to refrain from pressing her objections to Italy's expansionist policy when the Rome government was seeking its price for intervention. But the stipulations in the bomb do not seem to have been signed by Serbia and Montenegro. It is probable Italy did not believe those countries worth considering in her bargaining with the allies. If this turns out to be the truth the subtle play of Italian diplomacy is in danger of being effectively countered by the Slavs.

The occupation of Albania by Slav troops will be of immense service to Pan-Slavonic interests when the day of peace comes. Because of the Slav counter stroke, Italy will probably be unable to annex the Slavonic territory of Austro-Hungary and at the same time establish her claims to Albania. One of two ambitions must be abandoned.

ACCIDENT CAUSES MUCH COMMOTION

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 3.—Alex Klobner, 58, a laborer at the Crucible Steel company's plant here, may never know what a commotion he caused in Pittsburgh yesterday. A steel plate fell upon Alexander when a crane broke and probably fatally crushed him.

The police sent several ambulances and then telephoned the hospitals to send more. Soon there were a half score ambulances about the plant. Rumors of a terrible explosion and of scores killed spread like wildfire through the city and thousands thronged to the plant. The police got a riot call. Then the company's office posted a bulletin: "One man hurt, no cause for excitement."

A WINNING PENALTY

BY JEAN GREY

Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

"Be good, sweet maid, and let who will be clever," Davis half-chanted, nodding significantly at Elise.

She blushed faintly, frowned and turned her back.

"It is nice to be good—even for revenue. Don't think I blame you, dear girl—serious-minded young men with money in both pockets are not to be despised."

"No! Rather light-minded ones who have nothing of any sort," Elise flung back with immense scorn.

Davis chuckled. "I'm worth as much as seven dollars, actual cash. Potentially—just wait till the royalties begin rolling in."

"Why not say till the Greek calends—as you generally do?" Elise came back at him, her voice choking. "I'm not twitting you with poverty—don't you dare say it. It's being poor with malice aforethought that sets me wild. That's your sort."

"Will plaintiff state her case? Defense reserved," Davis laughed, yet not quite easily. He had sensed the choking voice.

Elise turned upon him, her dropped hands clenching hard. "If you starved for an ideal, disdaining to work unworthily, I could love you, starve with you joyously," she said, "but when you let weak pride and pure vanity stand in the way—"

"I don't understand," Davis interrupted, now looking uncomfortable. "You do understand," Elise retorted. "You think it beneath your dignity to listen to reason. Graham wanted you to rewrite an act. You put the play in a drawer and have not looked at it since. Because, forsooth, he's an ass—off the stage. I know it—everybody does. But he has the instinct that tells him what will get over. You lack it. Your way may be ever so much finer—"

"Thanks for them kind words," Davis tried to say with merry scorn, but hurt and angry in spite of himself.

Elise went on pitilessly. "It was so with your book—first half is adorable—fresh and witty and clean. Everybody says so—but you will lug in dirt all through the last half. Needless dirt! Yes, you shall hear the truth. If your soul wore a dirty garment I could understand your sticking by it. It doesn't. You are clean—your uncleanness is just an affection—no matter how you prate about strength—"

"This grows monotonous," Davis broke in, "like the Mona Lisa smile. I'd rather be sworn at than have you so perfectly reasonable. Maybe I ought to let impatience do her perfect work. Still it occurs to me you are perhaps more acutely aware of my shortcomings from viewing them through the lens of another man's perfection."

"Only partly right," Elise answered. "I've felt this coming all along—but until you brought in Maginn I wouldn't let myself say it—even to myself."

"So I fetched a stick to break my own head. Well, it shall be blessed you, my children," Davis interrupted superbly. "Maginn, the little busy bee, improves the shining hour. Naturally he hovers over all sweets—"

"Maginn has just this to do with it," she cried, her nails dug into her palms. "He's below you—worlds beneath you—in every way except one—he does what he can and does it with a sincerity of belief in himself that quite redeems his conceit. If you tried only half so hard—"

"You forget, I am not a banker's son," Davis cried, now thoroughly angry. "Don't waste more breath, my dear. I understand. You are tired of waiting, of hoping, of believing. Maginn, with his expectations, his sweetly solemn mind, tempts you sadly. Take him and welcome. I offer you my felicitation and wish you a very good evening."

"As you will, but take this," Elise answered, slipping off his ring, a mere thread of gold with a winking fire opal on top. Her hand trembled. Was it for this she had but half an hour earlier sent Maginn away with a "No" so kind it was irrevocable? She knew it was wicked, but she had been kind as a penance for hating poor Maginn because of his humble perfection. They were bearing him so much farther and higher than Lynn—Davis's better parts were ever likely to carry him.

Now, Lynn was jealous. She would condone that in no man. She all but flung the ring at him. He let it fall and roll on the floor. He made to set his heel on it. She snatched it out of harm's way, her lips suddenly tremulous, her fine eyes dim.

He watched her smiling bitterly. "Finding is keeping," he said. "You can't disclaim your treasure trove. Anyway, the bauble is too cheap to be worth returning."

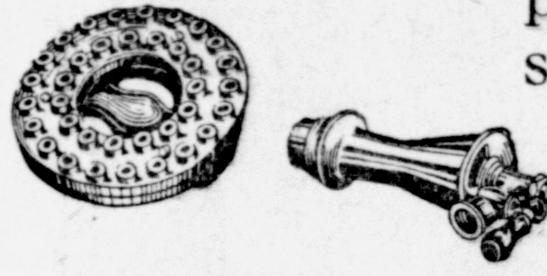

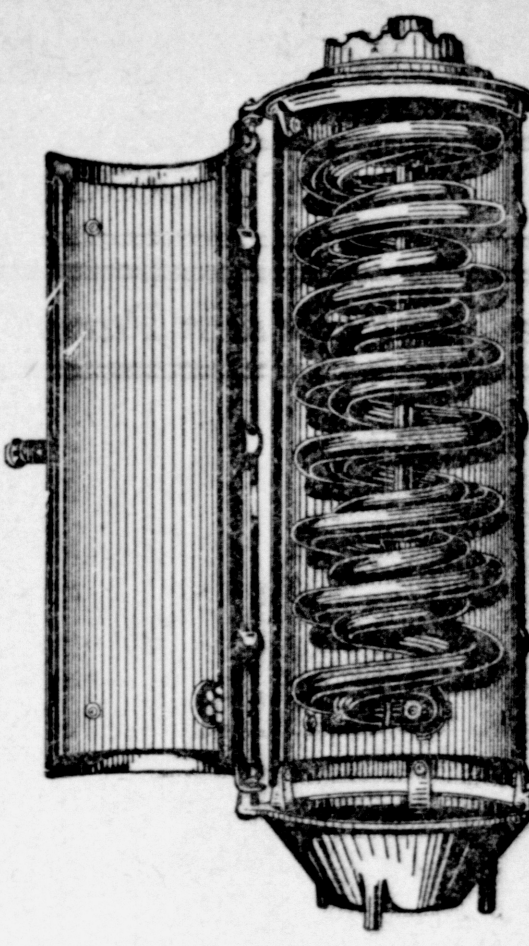

Elise could not speak. "Cheap like the giver," he went on bitterly. "Yet I went without cigars three months to buy it, more shame to me. If I were like Maginn I could have bought you a diamond with just a few hours work. Do you like baubles? I never thought you really cared—"

"You know I—loved that ring—better than—than—the finest, the costliest," Elise burst out. "I would not have had it different."

"Aren't you truly a sybarite in love with luxury?" Davis asked, drawing a pace nearer.

She shook her head, her breath coming quick. "I don't mind lacking things—hardly a little bit," she said. "The hard part is doing without because you must. If I were only rich enough I should let myself be really dandy now and then."

"Is that why you are suddenly so severe with me?" Davis asked, his

MOUNTAIN LION CAPTURED ALIVE

After following the dogs for fifteen miles through the woods of southern Oregon, a party of hunters succeeded in trapping, roping and capturing alive a California lion measuring eleven feet from tip to tip. This immense animal was pushed from a tree by a half breed Indian, who armed with a small stick fought fifty feet from the ground. The final action of the capture took place in a mountain stream where the men, waist deep in the ice cold water, succeeded in securely roping it.

This is all faithfully recorded in Salisbury's "Wild Life Pictures" that are coming to the Majestic theatre.

Another lion is pulled from a tree by the tail within a few feet of the camera and several wild cats are roped and captured. These pictures of our rapidly disappearing wild life are full of "punch" that goes direct to the heart of the nature lover. Big trout are caught before your eyes, quail and pheasants are shot over the champion dogs of the west; the life of the trout is shown from egg to mated fish, and a sensational goose hunt, shooting over champion pointer dogs of the west. Hundreds of other scenes are shown, all in moving pictures, and they are so entirely different from anything ever shown before, that the punch is irresistible. It is impossible to duplicate many of these pictures, and to miss them will be a misfortune.

These pictures will be shown at the Majestic theatre for three days, beginning Sunday afternoon.

For Real Enjoyment. Get out of yourself, and fling yourself into the service of someone else.—The Bishop of London.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

How the Vagrant Breeze Became a Worker.

The Little Breeze Blew Right Through the Window.

"ONCE a vagrant breeze became a worker," said daddy as he smiled at Jack and Evelyn and began the evening story.

"What's a vagrant breeze, daddy, and why did it become a worker?" asked Evelyn.

"A vagrant breeze," explained daddy, "is a breeze that apparently comes from nowhere, has nowhere in particular to go and nothing in particular to do. So it just blows around here and there, willy nilly."

"But how can a breeze work?" asked Jack.

"I'll tell you," said daddy. "Once this breeze that I am telling you about got loose somehow from the useful breezes and became a vagrant. It was a beautiful day, and the breezes roundabout were all happy, and the sun was happy, and the green leaves and grasses and the flowers that it shone upon were happy, too, and the children that ran around in the sunshine were happy, and I guess everything and everybody were happy except this foolish little vagrant breeze, which wasn't happy because it had nothing to do."

"The little vagrant breeze knew other breezes were happy and that there was a reason for it, but it couldn't just make up its mind what the reason was. So it made up its breezy mind to find out."

"There was a golden sunbeam floating around quite close to where the vagrant breeze was stirring, and the breeze determined to ask this sunbeam the secret. So it said to the sunbeam: 'I am a vagrant breeze, and I am not happy. What is the reason?'"

"That's easy," replied the sunbeam. "You are not happy because you are a vagrant breeze. What you need is something useful to do."

"What is there useful that I can do?" asked the breeze.

"The sunbeam had been looking around. 'Ah,' it said, 'the very thing! Do you see that child over there in that close little room, the little girl who is ill?'"

"Yes," answered the vagrant breeze; "I see her."

"Well," said the sunbeam, "you just blow right over there through that window and flutter around that little girl's face so she will be cooler and more comfy. Then you come back here, and I will tell you other things to do."

"So the little breeze breezed right over through the window and fluttered ever so gently around the little girl's face. She smiled, and her little face really took on a touch of color which made the little breeze very happy somehow, and right then and there it became a busy breeze and was happy."

LAWS IN THE HANDS OF THEIR ENEMY

That M. J. Cleary is now insurance commissioner is a fact that many people will consider less important than the circumstance that Herman L. Ekern is NOT insurance commissioner.

It is not denied that Ekern is a great insurance expert. It cannot be denied that he is responsible for insurance laws that have saved vast sums to the people of Wisconsin. It cannot be denied that he prosecuted an investigation by reason of which the citizens of this state are saved a half million dollars annually upon residence insurance alone. And he is removed from office at a moment when he is in a good way to consummate an effort that will save the people a million and a half more each year.

In place of Ekern, by grace of Governor Philipp, we now have M. J. Cleary. And who is "Micky" Cleary? An explanation offered by the progressives in justification of their votes for the confirmation of Cleary, set forth objection to the removal of Ekern on the ground that it was a sacrifice to politics, but explained that this protest must not be interpreted as reflecting upon the fitness and integrity of Mr. Cleary.

In an editorial upon the subject the State Journal, of Madison, recalls the removal of Emery, the "ablest" food commissioner, regrets the loss of the notably efficient Ekern, but observes that "the whole state sends greetings to Cleary."

The Journal and the progressive senators know Mr. Cleary, whose personality is said to be attractive. Deprived of that intimacy with the new insurance commissioner, we are compelled to rely upon Mr. Cleary's record as a member of the legislature.

That record's cold type discloses the fact that M. J. Cleary was one of the most consistent and unremitting leaders in the stalwart fight to kill the insurance legislation which the services of Mr. Ekern have given the people of Wisconsin.

What is the significance of the governor's choice for the duty of administering our admittedly excellent insurance laws, of the one man who fought hardest to prevent the enactment of these laws?

We've a notion that the incident will become embarrassing to at least two factions during the next state campaign. It's nice to be nice to a nice fellow, and perhaps his selection does not negative the notion that Micky's a good boy now. However, the democrats and the socialists can be depended upon to advertise the truth about our most delightful insurance commissioner's record in "the good old days."

IN THE MIDST OF THINGS

Since we go to so much trouble to elect men to represent us in the legislature, paying them with such abandon of generosity, it is good to drop in occasionally to see what we are getting for our trouble and our money.

Entering the state senate through the central door, one's eye quite naturally falls upon a small bald spot almost sequestered in a shock of brown hair. That little spot is the high-light of the senate. It is located on the back of Senator Otto Bosshard's head. Standing in the rear, one may get a quite accurate idea of where in the chamber the next thing is likely to happen, by judging the slant of Otto's eyes from the movement of the spot.

Getting down to cases, Senator Bosshard is of the substance of the legislative machine. Its cogs refuse to articulate without his sanction. From early morning until late at night, and often until early morning again, he is the center of activity. During sessions his leadership of the progressives demands that he be always on the alert, watchful of every movement. He must read the flicker of an eyelash across the chamber. Thrust and parry he must as opportunity presents or necessity demands. And before, between and after sessions conferences linked into one interminable conference find him in the places where policies are made and campaigns laid.

To Mr. Bosshard come the president of the university, regents, faculty men, officers of state, political leaders, sociologists, manufacturers, utility men, farmers—each with his plea, each with his argument, each consuming the precious moments of Otto's twenty-hour work day.

Nor are all those who come allies. The conservatives know that Senator Bosshard is ethical, that his word is good. They come seeking compromise, perhaps. Oftener they come with things in which they believe he will see merit, co-operating where agreement is possible.

So the citizen of La Crosse who visits Madison becomes conscious of satisfaction over the fact that, through its chosen agent in the senate, this community is playing an active part in the important business of state government.

Why the term "Old Scratch" means the devil is not plain until you examine the Swedish, where the word skrat means devil. In the middle high German the word scratch, scratze means fiend or ghost.

The Gentle Man

He was far from rich in money, but his smile was always sunny, and in joyous things and funny he was quick to take the lead. He was slave to no ambition for a high and proud position, gladness seemed to be his mission, to be gentle was his creed. He knew birds and trees and posies, knew the names of all the roses, where the owl in daytime dozes and where turkeys go to nest.

Though wise grown-ups used to about him, all the children round about him couldn't get along without him, for they knew him at his best.

He was not a spotlight seeker, not a loud and forceful speaker, he preferred to play a meeker and gentler part on earth. He preferred to claim the blisses that the money-chaser misses, and he took his pay in kisses from the ones who knew his worth.

His philosophy was gladness and a faith supreme in sadness, he was patient with the badness that he met along the way. Than a great man he would rather, to his children, be a father, it was never too much bother to get out with them and play.

Now the grass is green above him, and the hearts that used to love him, but men still are speaking of him and his many kindly years. Now he needs no brave defender, all the richness and the splendor of his gentle life and tender we behold through falling tears.

And I sometimes sit and ponder, as I think of him off yonder where the angel spirits wander, what a glorious world 't would be Were there more of us forsaking the mad game of money making, gladness finding, gladness taking wheresoe'er we chance to be.

—Edgar A. Guest in Detroit Free Press.

Very Negligent of the Mail Carrier

Listen to the following from the Burr Oak Acorn:
"Ambrose Craig, an inmate of the county home, has decided to make a complaint to the postoffice department at Washington, against F. Douglas, mail carrier on route six, Sturgis. The cause of the complaint, Craig says, is that a week ago he wanted to buy some stamps and went out by the mail box at the county home and sat down to wait for the carrier. The weather was warm and Craig went to sleep. The carrier came and delivered the mail and never stopped to wake Ambrose up."

Sufferer from Dislike

"Dat's me—I did," was the answer; "but I've done left her."
"Why, how's that?"
"Well, de first week she called me honey, de next week she called me around and called me old Richards."

A COMEDY ROMANCE

Staggering slightly, he stepped again to the trays of unset stones. The glassy eyes had grown greedy now. He put out one huge hand as the lover aforesaid might reach toward his lady's hair.

Then Mr. Wall shut his lips firmly, and thrust both of his hands deep into his trousers pockets. He stood there in the middle of that gorgeous room—a fat figure of a man suffering a cruel inhuman agony.

He was still standing thus when the tall man came running back. Apprehension clouded that sallow face.

"It was very kind of you," the small eyes of the clerk darted everywhere, then came back to Martin Wall. "I'm obliged—why, what's the matter, sir?"

Martin Wall passed his hand across his eyes, as a man banishing a terrible dream.

"The little girl?" he asked.
"Hardly a scratch," said the clerk, pointing to the smiling child at his side. "It was lucky, wasn't it?"

He was behind the counter now, studying the trays unprotected on the show-case.

"Very lucky," Martin Wall still had to steady himself. "Perhaps you would like to look about a bit before I go."

"Oh, no, sir. Everything's all right, I'm sure. You were looking at these stones—"

"Some other time," said Mr. Wall weakly. "I only wanted an idea of what you had."

"Good day, sir. And thank you very much."

"Not at all." And the limp ex-guardian passed unsteadily from the store into the glare of the street.

Mr. Tom Stacy, of the Manhattan Club, half dozing on the veranda of his establishment, was rejoiced to see his old friend Martin Wall crossing the pavement toward him.

"Well, Martin—" he began. And then a look of concern came into his face. "Good lord, man—what ails you?"

Mr. Wall sank like a wet rag to the steps.

"Tom," he said, "a terrible thing has just happened. I was left alone in Ostby and Blake's jewelry shop."

"Alone?" cried Mr. Stacy. "You—alone?"

Mr. Stacy leaned over.
"Are you leaving town—in a hurry?" he asked.

Gloomily Mr. Wall shook his head.
"He put me on my honor," he complained. "Left me in charge of the shop. Can you beat it? Of course after that, I—well—you know, somehow I couldn't do it. I tried, but I couldn't."

Mr. Stacy threw back his head, and his raucous laughter smote the lazy summer afternoon.

"I can't help it," he gasped. "The funniest thing I ever—your—the best stone thief in America alone in charge of three million dollars' worth of the stuff!"

"Good heavens, man," whispered Wall. "Not so loud." And well might he protest, for Mr. Stacy's indiscreet and mirthful tone carried far. It carried, for example, to Mr. Richard Minot, standing hidden behind the curtains of his little room overhead.

"Come inside, Martin," said Stacy. "Come inside and have a brace. You sure must need it, after that."

"I do," replied Mr. Wall, in heartfelt tones. He rose and followed Tom Stacy.

Cheeks burning, eyes popping, Mr. Minot watched them disappear into the Manhattan Club.

Here was news indeed. Lord Harrowby's boon companion the ablest jewel thief in America! Just what did that mean?

Putting on coat and hat, he hurried to the hotel office and there wrote a telegram:

"Situation suspicious. Are you dead certain H. is on the level?"
An hour later, in his London office, Mr. Jephson read this message carefully three times.

A man is a good deal like a tire.

His greatness depends on the crowd he is in.

The really great man—the leader—literally has to meet all comers in the contest for public approval.

Any tire is the best tire in a crowd of inferiors.

But nowadays a tire has to be extraordinary if it is to make and hold a record for superior service and mileage economy.

It is the extraordinary quality of Diamond Tires that has given them their deserved pre-eminence.

Send for our book of letters from dealers who sold Diamond Tires in 1914.

SECRETARY DANIELS HAS UTOPIAN PLAN FOR AMERICAN NAVY

As Planned by Head of Navy All Supplies and Munitions Would Be Made by Government

(By BOND P. GEDDES)
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 3.—A "self supporting" navy, making its own battleships, torpedo boats, submarines, torpedoes, projectiles, armor plate, powder and all war supplies, is the ideal of Secretary of the Navy Daniels.

He outlined to me his hopes of a naval utopia. He believes it is not only possible but probably that, with proper financial assistance and approval from congress, realization of his plans may be reached before the end of the present administration.
"Of course we never expect to manufacture all our own materials for the navy; we will probably always buy a certain amount of supplies needed, but it is my hope that the navy will be equipped to make in part all of the supplies it uses," Secretary Daniels stated.

"By manufacturing our own supplies we are not only largely independent of private manufacturers, avoid being 'held up' in prices, but also destroy the incentive of private manufacturing interests to bring pressure upon congress for large appropriations in the interest of their private profit."

It is Secretary Daniels' idea that if the navy is equipped to make its own supplies, private manufacturers will not, when congress comes to appropriating money for them, feel that as a matter of course the contracts will be let to them. It would then be uncertain whether the money would be spent in government navy yards or private manufacturing plants. The "hounding" of congress for a large appropriation would then be largely avoided.

Secretary Daniels pointed out that the effects of such an administrative plan were already seen.

Prices Reduced
"Before the government began to manufacture its own powder we paid as high as eighty cents a pound to private manufacturers," he said.
"The price was brought down to fifty-six cents. This was largely because the navy found out just exactly what it cost to make powder.
We then knew what was a proper price to pay, with proper profit to the manufacturer."

"By making all of our own supplies we will in the same way be able to ascertain just what they cost—and just what profit private manufacturers are making on supplies sold to the navy."

Secretary Daniels said his plans
did not embrace a "government monopoly" in making navy supplies, similar to those of foreign nations.
He merely proposes that the navy make part of each and every article important to its sustenance.

"Soon we shall have sufficient capacity in our own powder plants," he said, "to supply all the ships and keep up reserve supplies—on the present footing of the navy, of course."

In case of war, Daniels admits, it would be necessary for the navy to purchase a great part of its powder and projectiles, as well as many ships to become naval auxiliaries. The capacity of the powder plant at Indian Head, Md., on the Potomac river a few miles below Washington, will be doubled in a short time, according to the navy's head. The torpedo projectile plant at Newport, R. I., will also be doubled in output capacity, he stated. Incidentally he is keeping in touch with both plants by personal visits.

Would Breed Dreadnaughts
In carrying out his plan for a "self supporting" navy in regard to powder and projectiles, the secretary has more ambitious plans for the government in constructing its own dreadnaughts. He hopes to build one of the new dreadnaughts congress may authorize next winter at the League Navy Yard at Philadelphia. The Brooklyn Navy Yard has already qualified in this respect in the recent construction of the battleship New York. Incidentally, she

M'PHERSON DENIES APPLICATION TO BREAK COA LTRUST

PHILADELPHIA, July 3.—The United States district court in an opinion handed down today by Judge McPherson denied the application of the government to dissolve the alleged "anthracite coal trust" and decided the case in favor of all the defendants.

The court held that the Reading holding company, the principal defendant, did not violate the commodities clause of the interstate commerce act and that phase of the government's suit was dismissed.

Aiding the Memory.

Concentration and practice are the chief needs in memorizing poetry and dramatic lines. Competition seems to be the best way to stimulate concentration in children if they are not suffering from nervous troubles, and youngsters will find it most interesting to do these memory feats against time. A race to learn a poem may be as interesting as a hundred-yard dash. Adding columns of figures against time is not only interesting but exceedingly practical.

VOLUNTEER PUPILS MAKE SUMMER SCHOOL PLEASURE

"The most encouraging thing about the summer school is that every one of the 1,324 pupils now enrolled is an eager student. They came voluntarily, because they want to learn. Naturally they are the pick of the community."

The above is an interesting observation of L. P. Benezet, superintendent of La Crosse schools, relating to the summer school. The enrollment exceeds expectations by more than three hundred, 1,100 having been the original estimate.

Of the 1,324 students enrolled, 932 are from the grammar schools; 280 from the high school; ninety-four from other schools and eighteen not enrolled in any school. Of the grammar students, 609 are doing advance work, and 392 are reviewing.

Most of the advance students will realize their ambition, by this means, of finishing high school in one semester less than the regular term.

The first of the following tables shows the enrollment by grades subdivided as to advance or review work. The second table shows the enrollment subdivided as to the source from which the pupils are drawn:

Police Look For Loser Of "Button" They Have Found

Game of "Button, Button," won by Authorities After Gang of Tramps Keep Them Guessing for Several Hours

An industrious game of "button, button, who's got the button," with a plane for button, taxed the police department's patience last night until the last of eight tramps were rounded up and taken to the station for safekeeping. Today the police were searching for the owner of the plane, a nicked shaving cup and a new pair of shears, which were found on the tramps. The police think the articles are lost from some hardware store.

About 8 o'clock last night the police began to get calls from outlying saloons that someone was attempting to sell a new plane for fifty cents. Each call gave a different description of the peddler, and the police were thoroughly mystified until the chief and Patrolman Wermuth picked up a man with the plane in his possession.

Leading German Diplomat Says Feelings of German People Will Be Considered in Reply

STATEMENT AUTHORITY

Germany Will Try to Clear Up Misunderstandings That Are Alleged to Exist

BY CARL W. ACKERMAN (United Press Staff Correspondent) (Copyright, 1915, by United Press.) (Copyright in Great Britain) BERLIN, via The Hague, July 3.—"Germany will strive in the coming note, and in any subsequent exchanges to interpret fully the desire of the German people, which is one of entire good will, and which is always ready to adopt any honorable means to prevent misunderstanding and discord."

Baron Mumm von Schwarzenstein, now attached to the German foreign office, and one of the leading diplomats of Germany, made this statement in an exclusive interview granted the United Press today. His expression is particularly significant because of his intimate relations with the kaiser. The baron at one time was the German ambassador to Tokio; during the Blaine administration he was a special attaché at Washington and he possesses a full understanding of the relations between the German and American people.

His statement was further evidence of German officialdom's apparent determination to clear away the feeling in America that Germany has been indifferent to American public opinion. The baron emphasized the point that both countries had been led into a misunderstanding because news reached each through English channels.

"I am glad to see the effort on both sides to clear up many of the primary causes of the misunderstanding between the two great countries bearing fruit," continued the baron. "I have learned it was believed in many American quarters that Germany was not only indifferent to the possibilities of a conflict with America but that she was deliberately seeking to involve America. We regret that there are any Americans who believe it. Germany could not reconcile such an intention to the ideals of her people. You cannot indict a whole people."

Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg left today for the kaiser's headquarters in Galicia with the completed text of the German reply to the second American note. If it meets with the emperor's full approval, the communication probably will be delivered to Ambassador Gerard on Monday.

President to Have Note Friday WASHINGTON, July 3.—The German note will be considered by President Wilson and his cabinet on Friday. It will be handed to Ambassador Gerard Thursday, according to advices reaching the state department today, but the president will let that wait until his first regular cabinet meeting.

WILLARD'S PLAY IN THE FILMS

Albert Chevalier, an old time favorite actor, makes his screen debut in "The Middleman." The following is quoted from the Dramatic Mirror: "A public demonstration of 'The Middleman' was given at the Broadway theater (New York) the other day, and the picture was voted one of the biggest subjects ever shown on the screen. Bidding for it, by representatives of the different feature companies, became very spirited, and it finally went to the Metro corporation. Exhibitors holding contracts with the Metro can look forward to a very sterling screen sensation. 'The Middleman' enjoyed wide vogue and great popularity for twenty years as a high class stage production, and so great was its pulling power that Mr. E. S. Willard played in it for fully that length of time. The screen production is in five parts, many of which were taken right in the pottery where perfect atmospheric detail was secured."

"The Middleman" will be the Monday and Tuesday feature at the Casino.

NEW YORK, July 13.—Probably the real reason for today's weakness on the stock exchange was a general dislike to remain committed in the market over the double holiday, when there are so many possibilities in the news. The peculiar status of the military campaign, both in eastern and western Europe, would naturally serve to inspire such caution, even with the publication of Germany's note postponed until later in next week. The early pressure on the market came from professional sources, where use was made again of the familiar dividend reduction conjectures. With the stock exchange in just this mood, the news of the attack on Mr. Morgan had a bewildering effect which for the time accentuated the weakness. But prices closed steady, at a moderate recovery.

The detailed and much belated figures of the country's agricultural exports, for May and for the eleven months, were highly interesting. This morning's published assertions that a British loan of $100,000,000 or more, would be offered and taken in this market, are probably rather premature.

INFANT CAMP FOR PICNIC CHILDREN

Regular Babies Will Not Be Taken Care of at Myrick Park on Monday

Because their mothers will be at home and able to give them proper care since Monday is a holiday, the twenty-odd infants who are Miss Peterson's regular boarders at the Myrick park baby camp will not be collected on the Fourth of July. Instead, the camp will be turned over to the babies of mothers who are attending the St. Mary's church picnic and wish to be free of maternal duties for a time.

some of Morgan's business associates in a high powered automobile. Danger from Infection After examining the injury Dr. Markoe said it was not serious and there was no danger except from infection. Careful precautions were taken to prevent infection.

"I was directed to do this by God Almighty, and He was my only accomplice," said the prisoner when arraigned before Justice Luyster. "The war must be stopped, and Morgan is the man who can do it whenever he desires. I am an American citizen and I acted at the direction of God."

Local physicians who examined the prisoner said that he undoubtedly was mentally unbalanced. When the justice pressed him for his identity, he said: "I am a Christian gentleman and I resent your questions."

In his pockets were found several local railroad tickets from points in Texas and the northwest.

Several of the railroad tickets found in the effects of the prisoner were from New York to various points and indicated that he had provided means of escape via whatever route might have been most convenient.

Dr. W. G. Lyle, head physician at St. Luke's hospital, came here this afternoon to consult with Dr. Markoe as to the possibility of infection.

The statement came from the Morgan home this afternoon that the man shot twice at Morgan but that only one shot took effect. The first shot, it was said, shattered a valuable portrait in the hall and the second struck the financier in the groin.

Extreme precautions were taken to prevent anyone from reaching the Morgan home this afternoon and details of the shooting were given out by physicians and others who met reporters at the edge of the Morgan estate.

Sends Word to Wife

The prisoner this afternoon sent the following telegram to Mrs. F. Holt, 161 Marsalls street, Dallas, Texas, who, he said, was his wife: "Man proposes, God disposes. Don't come here until you get my letters. Be strong," signed "Frank."

An ominous air of mystery was thrown about the extent of the injuries of J. P. Morgan this afternoon. About the same time it became known that Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, British ambassador to the United States, was a guest at the Morgan home and witnessed the shooting. The ambassador and Morgan were at breakfast when the would-be assassin forced his way into the house.

The fact that Dr. W. G. Lyle, head of St. Luke's hospital, was summoned to consult with Dr. Markoe, the specialist who made a wild automobile dash from New York, was taken as confirmation of the report that the injuries were far more serious than was admitted.

No explanation was offered for the presence of the British ambassador except that he was visiting Morgan. It is public knowledge, however, that Morgan has been handling practically all the war contracts in America for England and the other allies.

Had German Chair at Cornell

ITHACA, N. Y., July 3.—Frank Holt, whose name was given by the man arrested at Glen Cove for shooting J. P. Morgan, was a professor in the German department at Cornell during the last year.

Holt left here at the end of the college term and it is understood here he had accepted an engagement to teach next year in Texas. He is said to have been of German descent but was born in the United States according to his few associates here. He spoke with a German accent.

Engaged at Dallas

DALLAS, Texas, July 3.—Frank Holt, the former Cornell university man, whose name was given by the man who today shot J. P. Morgan, was engaged to teach at the Southern Methodist university here next fall, according to the university employee who is making out the university catalogue.

Bankers Call

NEW YORK, July 3.—A crowd of about 100 persons were gathered about the offices of J. P. Morgan & Company at 11 o'clock today and several of the prominent men of the "Street" called. On account of the fact that it was Saturday before the Fourth of July, there were far fewer persons than usual in the financial district.

Among prominent bankers calling at the Morgan offices this afternoon to learn Morgan's condition, were Stephen Baker, president of the Bank of Manhattan; James H. Alexander, president of the Bank of Commerce; A. Barton Hepburn, chairman of the board of directors of the Chase National bank, and John Hanauer, of Kuhn, Loeb & Co.

Leading issues on the New York Stock exchange fell off from one to two points following news that J. P. Morgan had been shot.

VILLA ITCHES TO GET HIS HANDS ON VICTORIANO HUERTA

Juarez Villistas Discuss with Unction the Day Huerta Will Face a Firing Squad

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, July 3.—The government net in the alleged Huerta-Orozco war plot is becoming tighter today. Ricardo Gomez Roblo is held in jail charged with conspiracy to violate neutrality laws and other alleged conspirators stand in danger of arrest.

EL PASO, Texas, July 3.—Over in Juarez Villistas are talking with unctious of the day when Victoriano Huerta will face a firing squad. Despite reports from Washington that the state department will not grant General Villa's request and extradite Huerta for Madero's murder, the Juarez authorities today discussed the ex-dictator's fate at their hands.

"We won't execute him immediately," said Gen. Tomas Ornelas, commander of the garrison. "I'll see that he has a fair trial. A military court will be called to try him and if he is found guilty he will face a firing squad. If he is acquitted he can go free."

Huerta is not worried. The old Indian laughed today when the extradition case was mentioned. He declared emphatically he had no intention of jumping his $15,000 bond on the charge of conspiring to head a new revolution in Mexico.

"Why should I jump my bond?" he said. "The fact that the government wanted the case continued last Thursday proves that it has nothing on me. The delay was simply to gather evidence."

The Juarez firing squad party won't be denied, however. If not Huerta it will be Maximo Castillo, destroyer of the Cumbe tunnel, Gen. Roderigo Querez, a Huerta general and Jesus San Martin, a Castillo bandit, all ordered deported today by the immigration authorities. They probably will be turned over to the Juarez authorities who say they will execute all three.

Gunther R. Lessing, Gen. Villa's attorney, was in Austin, Texas, pushing Villa's request for Huerta's extradition. Villistas here declare they would not be surprised to see Governor Ferguson sign the papers. The request came from Governor F. D. Avila of Chihuahua and is technically for the extradition of Huerta to answer for the murder of Governor Abraham Gonzalez. But this is known to be a blind for Villa's desire to avenge the assassination of President Madero.

Huerta and his five alleged co-conspirators under arrest will be called upon to explain the presence here of machine guns and ammunition seized by the federal authorities.

EL PASO, Texas, July 3.—A general roundup of Huerta sympathizers was started by United States marshals and agents of the department of justice today. Three already detained at the federal building are J. Bratner and Enrique Gorosetz, the former dictator's personal secretaries, and General Caus. At least fifty Huerta generals and other followers will be taken into custody, government officials stated.

General Pascual Orozco, arrested with Huerta on conspiracy charges, disappeared today. Eluding six secret service men who have been guarding his apartments, Orozco was not to be found this afternoon, although the entire city was combed for him.

Officials fear Orozco has crossed the border into Mexico, forfeiting his $7,500 bond. General Huerta was known to have received $60,000 in cash from New York today.

REGATTA OF M. V. P. B. A. OPENS MONDAY

Details Are Complete for the Largest Power Boat Meet in America This Year

HANNIBAL, Mo., July 3.—The last detail of arrangements for the big race meet and water carnival of the Mississippi Valley Power Boat association, which opens here Monday morning for three days, has been completed, and Hannibal is alert for the boom of the starting gun which is expected to mark the opening of a race meet that will see American speed boat records shattered.
 This is the biggest regatta to be held in America this year and thousands of visitors are arriving from all of the surrounding states.
 The list of entries given out by the race committee shows some of the greatest boats in the country will participate. Included in the list is Commodore Pugh's new "Baby Disturber," a 1,000 horse power 26-foot hydroplane. "Buffalo Enquirer," a Baby Reliance model owned by Commodore Connors of Buffalo, N. Y.; "Mark Twain," a 20-foot monoplane owned by Commodore Judson H. Boughton of St. Louis and powered with an 8-cylinder Sterling racing engine. Others in the free for all are "Barnacle," "Billikin," "Black Demon III," "Dodger IV," "Baby Wisconsin," "Ugly Duckling IV" and "Ugly Duckling III." These same boats are entered in the Webb Trophy race, the big amateur event in which the prize is the American championship and the $1,000 Webb cup.

The regatta to be staged at Hannibal next week is the eighth annual event held under the auspices of the M. V. P. B. A., which in the past five years has grown to be the largest organization of power boat clubs in America. Its regattas have seen many records broken in the past, a new fresh water record of a mile at the rate of 54.54 miles an hour having been set at Peoria last year by the "Baby Speed Demon." The first

GERMAN CHRISTIAN
ENDEAVORERS NOT TO ATTEND MEET

Displeasure with Americans
Keeps Germans from Attending World's Convention

CHICAGO, July 3.—There will be no German delegation representing the Fatherland at the fifth world's Christian Endeavor convention which opens here next Wednesday night. Refusal of German endeavorers to participate in such a meeting for the first time in the organization's history was contained in a letter from Rev. Frederick Blecher, made public by Christian Endeavor headquarters today. Rev. Blecher is the Christian Endeavor leader in Germany. His letter in part follows:

"We cannot find words to express our opinion of Americans, in that on Sunday you pray for peace and on the other six days of the week you send munitions of war to our enemies. This war would have ended long ago if America had not made a business of supplying war materials."

"Words of sympathy are of little value to us. We want acts and the truth, and not such facts as we see are printed in the American press. We are astounded at the way the American press has been put in the dark by the manufactured lies of England."

"Under such circumstances you need not wonder that it is certain we shall not come to the world's Christian Endeavor convention in Chicago. It hurts us that this is the first time we have failed to be present. The fault is with America, for we were ready to send our delegates, but now we must put the beloved Fatherland over all."

Virtually every other nation on the globe will be represented.

Fashion!
And that word is not confined to dress or to hats or walking sticks or ribbons or frills. It even includes circuses and the clowns therein.

Beg pardon? Yes, clowns is correct. For there are fashions in clowns just as there are fashions in neckties or in the waistline, or anything else. And the fashions in clowns have changed a good deal in the last fifteen or twenty years.

Incidentally, speaking of clowns, brings forth the fact that the Sells-Floto Circus and Buffalo Bill's Original Wild West is to visit this city Thursday, July 15 and when it comes, the genius clown will be present in forty species. As to their fashions—

Lou Plamonden, clown, coming with the Sells-Floto Circus

Time was when the clown merely had to be funny. His work was that of the improviser. He followed the principal riding act around the ring and made faces, or tumbled on his left eye as his fancy bade—and the audience liked it.

But that time is gone now. For now the clown must be a sort of theatrical magnate on a small scale.

moment—everything in the performance upon a stage when one cue line brings forth another and the constant dove-tailing of the speeches and the business builds the play.

And so it is that in the Sells-Floto Circus and Buffalo Bill's Original Wild West there are "props" and effects by the wagonload, and all for the use of the forty clowns employed by the circus. For the business of clowning has changed.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD
BY HAL SHERIDAN
(Written for the United Press.)

The Dodgers by administering their third straight defeat to the Giants, slipped into a tie with the Braves for fifth place.

Yesterday was a swell day for the pitchers with a fast one, being dark and exceedingly dreary—to the batters. The Giants got four hits off Coombs, the Senators got three off Pieh, the Yanks got three off Shaw and Ayres, the Reds got one off Specs Meadows of the Cards, and the Pirates got three off George Pierce.

The Yanks and Nationals are having an awful quarrel for a first division berth. The Yanks have the edge today.

If Lee Magee doesn't quit firing Bennie Kauff, we can see where Upland, Maryland, is going to have one swell team, with Baker and McLean already there.
